

Futures market

Which celebs will hatch, match or dispatch in 2011? Our psychic predicts.

IT'S been a turbulent year in celebrity land with plenty of break-ups, make-ups and shake-ups, so we thought we would consult psychic profiler Julianna Suranyi and get her to look into the future of some of our favourite famous personalities to see what is in store for them.

Stephanie Rice and Quade Cooper: We at Confidential HQ have been feeling all warm and fuzzy about the meeting of minds that is Steph Rice and Quade Cooper and have had our fingers crossed it will lead to wedding bells, but Julianna reckons we shouldn't hold our breath.

"I don't feel it will last," she told us.

And that's not the only bad news for Steph.

"I have to say with Stephanie, I feel that she will have a little bit of a bumpy year. She takes what she does in the water seriously, but anything away from that she doesn't. I feel like she is going to get quite a big whack of bad PR around her behaviour."

She might want to stay away from Twitter in that case.

Liz Cantor and Todd Carney: Unfortunately, the news isn't much better for Channel Seven babe Liz Cantor and her Roosters bad boy Todd Carney.

"I do feel it will go for a while, but do I feel it will end up in a marriage? No," Julianna said. "I do feel they will have an enduring friendship out of it."

Well, it is better to have loved and lost than to never have loved at all.

Prince William and Catherine Middleton:

Happily, there is good news for some celebrity couples. Julianna reckons Wills and Waity Katie can go the distance.

"The marriage will last because they know who they are and have no illusions about what they are going into," she said. "Kate is internally elegant and strong and no pushover, and William will support and stand by her in the media."

Looks like those souvenir plates and spoons are only going to increase in value then.

Julia Gillard and Tim Mathieson:

Speaking of weddings, if you were hoping to get your hands on a souvenir plate with Julia Gillard and Tim Mathieson emblazoned on the front, you are out of luck. There is no wedding on the cards for Julia Gillard and the first dude.

"I don't feel she wants to marry. She doesn't put a weight on the conventional sense of marriage," Julianna said. "It's a choice for her to not marry and have a family, it's not of value to her."

It looks like the pair will continue to live together without paperwork for the time being.

Keith Urban and Nicole Kidman: In further happy couple news, Julianna has peered into the future of Australia's favourite son and daughter Keith and Nicole and predicts a baby brother or sister for little Sunday Rose.

"I feel there will be an announcement by September of another child, when they are in that first trimester," she said.

So if you are considering gifts for a baby shower you have until March 2012 to decide.

Dannii Minogue: Speaking of favourite Aussies rocking overseas, 2011 is set to be a big one for Dannii Minogue too.

"Dannii Minogue is very settled and calm in herself and knows who she is," Julianna said. "She will have a second child with Kris Smith at the end of 2011."

But there is more good news.

"Kris is very balanced and will propose in mid-2011. They will have a strong and lasting union and will wed after their second child is born."

Justin Bieber: In less cheerful news for some, there is no end in sight for the little popette that is Justin Bieber. In fact, Julianna thinks he has a lengthy career to look forward to and we will see him popping up in other mediums.

"Usher will keep morphing him and morphing him. He will have a long career," she said.

From everyone here, we hope you have a safe and happy new year.
