

CONFIDENTIAL

Want more? go to couriermail.com.au/confidential

Jasmin Lill Phone 3666 6307 Email lillj@qnp.newsltd.com.au • Josh Robertson Phone 3666 6822 Email robertsonjo@qnp.newsltd.com.au

The future of the stars

We quiz Brisbane psychic Julianna Suranyi (right) on her celebrity predictions for the year ahead

"MY friends call me the Chanel psychic because I hate that sh-t. One friend just had a tarot reading and there were all these crystals hanging around, and she said, 'I just thought of you in your frickin' Prada shoes and your Kenji jeans' and laughed."

The psychic profiler is now so tech savvy, she concentrates her business online where clients send in questions and get an MP3 reading in return.

"I happen to do these things and there's no attachment to it. I'm telling you exactly what I get. It's not my job to change it and I completely trust what I get because it's never let me down. If you like it or you don't, that's entirely up to you."

Tiger Woods

JULIANNA doesn't think Woods's penchant for loose-lipped waitresses will be fatal to his marriage – yet.

"I don't feel his wife is going to leave him because there'll be a financial agreement on it. Two thousand and ten will be about how he salvaged the marriage. He'll go in to counselling and he'll come back as a born-again. I actually feel 2011 and 2012 will be the two years where he takes out everything consistently, but in 2013, it will finally go belly-up. He's not getting treated for the problem, so then he and his wife will quietly separate."

Might be an idea to get the yacht serviced in 2013.

Miranda Kerr and Orlando Bloom

FEW celebrity couples have snared as many magazine covers as these two, with the constant speculation over the state of their relationship. Julianna suggests we might have to cool our boots, and that walking down the aisle isn't as crucial to the lovebirds as it is seems to be to everyone else.

"I don't feel that they're engaged and I don't feel that they'll marry. Nor do I feel they care about it."

So whose relationship are we going to stress over this year?

Brad Pitt and Angelina Jolie

DON'T expect to hear wedding bells for Brangelina, nor will they end up on the scrapheap of celebrity couples, Julianna says.

"Marriage has no bearing to them. I feel that they'll stay together. They have a deep sexual and soul connection."

"I don't see that separating easily."

Anna Bligh

"I ACTUALLY feel she's going to go down as one of the most hated women in politics, which is a shame really, because I feel that it doesn't matter which way she goes, she can't win."

Uh oh.

Peter Costello

JUST when we thought everyone had sorted their leadership woes, Julianna is tipping a surprise shake-up within the Liberal Party.

"I feel that Tony Abbott and Peter Costello will challenge Rudd and Wayne Swan. I got that there's an economic problem that's going to blow up in the Rudd Government's face about a quiet deal with a China-based and owned company that's looking at purchasing in to our resources.

"I feel like it's more so towards the end of 2010, around September/October. But Costello will be prime minister of Australia."

That's quite a call, since Pete quit politics last year!

Lote Tuqiri

"HE keeps popping up in my mind. They always said he'll never play for Australia again. I actually feel that he will in 2011 but he's also going to go play for a club in France, and that he'll end up coming back in for Australia in 2011."

Napoleon Perdis

"I FEEL that he's going to move in to China and he's going to become a phenomenon. He's going to be like the male Coco Chanel where he just becomes iconic with what he does."

Alex Perry

"I FEEL that he's going to do a joint venture with an American. He'll end up being just the name – he won't maintain control of the company."

Britney Spears

"SHE hasn't hit her strength. I feel that 2011 will be the year that she will go stellar."

Morgan Freeman and Matt Damon

"THEY will be nominated for Oscars."

Lote Tuqiri

Miranda Kerr

Peter Costello

Napoleon Perdis

Angelina Jolie and Brad Pitt

Anna Bligh

Elin Nordegren and Tiger Woods

Did you know the Islands of Hawaii is an active volcano that grows out of the earth at 19 acres a year?

YOU'LL BE AMAZED AT WHAT THEY DISCOVER

STARTS SUNDAY 31 JANUARY

DISCOVERY